

How To Identify Your Lewmar Portlight

Portlights Produced after October 1997 (with the exception of the Old Standard) have Lewmar, the name of the range, the portlight size, and a date code stamped on the acrylic.

All models available in opening, Portlights, or non-opening versions, Fixedlights.

Features	Portlight Range (Click on a range to see further details.)
	Old standard	New Standard	Atlantic Mk1	Ocean
Production Dates	1982 - 1998	1997 - now	1994 - now	1990 - now
Alloy frame around acrylic
Plastic handles turns like keys to open
Plastic handles pushed to close
Metal handles pushed to close
Poerlight clicks through a series of positions at which it will stay open

(Old) Standard Portlight

- Produced 1982-1998
- No frame around acrylic
- Plastic handles and hinges fastened through acrylic
- Plastic turn to close handles
- 2 Frame joins on outside of portlight
- Interior ABS trim fitted with velcro type strips.
- Most spares still available for standard sizes.

Old and New Standard Fixedlights have no handle and the acrylic is bonded to the outer trim.

New Standard Portlight

- Produced 1997 to date
- No frame around acrylic
- Plastic handles and hinges glued to acrylic
- Plastic push to close handles
- 1 Frame join on outside of portlight

Old and New Standard Fixedlights have no handle and the acrylic is bonded to the outer trim

- Interior ABS trim clips into place

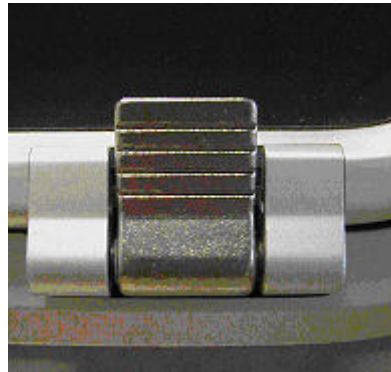

Atlantic Portlight

- Produced 1994 to date
- Alloy frame around acrylic
- Metal push to close handles
- 1 Frame joint in outside of portlight
- Alloy interior trim

New

Old

Ocean Portlight

- Produced 1990 to 2000
- Only one size available
- Alloy frame around acrylic
- Plastic handles push sideways to close handles
- Cast frame - no joins on outside of portlight
- Interior ABS trim fitted with velcro type strips.
- Deadlights available

